SIY Teacher: Ibrahim Bokharouss

Ibrahim Bokharouss originally crossed paths with Search Inside Yourself at Google in 2009, where he was working as an engineer.

This sparked a multiyear and multipath journey of self-inquiry and self-development, eventually accumulating in the desire to give and share the insights and enrichments to others, starting with becoming a yoga teacher in 2013 and a Search Inside Yourself teacher at Google in 2015.

Around that time, he also shifted into initiating and working on mindfulness engineering projects at Google. Parallel to that he enjoyed being and learning in the fields, working with youth in developing countries and humans in refugee camps. In 2018 he joined Search Inside Yourself Leadership Institute, where as part of the product team he is exploring the role of technology in introducing and sustaining practices of wisdom and compassion, while also continuing teaching Search Inside Yourself programs across the world.
